My dear Sir,

I had the pleasure of sending for your acceptance a few days ago a copy of our work on Coprophilous Fungi.

We have now

met with a species of Mycotrichum
on the dung of Rat,
which we suspect to be your M. coprogenum.

Could you send me a specimen
so that I could make sure if this is so,
& if it is a distinct
species; — in any case

we hope to give
full figures of it.

I would of course
take every care of your specimen, & return
it in a few days.

I trust you will kindly excuse this request. Yours very sincerely, Ernest C. Salmon.
